Welcome to our 2024 Season!

It is an invaluable and unforgettable experience for students to watch the characters from their Literature texts come to life. Schools should look forward to Sight Lines' annual productions and mark the dates on their calendar for future learning journeys.

ABOUT SIGHT LINES

*Equipping the performers of today;
developing the audiences of tomorrow...*

Established in 2012, Sight Lines' works include both local and international shows including Edges the Musical (by The Greatest Showman composers Pasek & Paul), Lord of the Flies (by William Golding) and Everything but the Brain ("Best Script" Life! Theatre Awards by local playwright Jean Tay).

Since 2020, the company has expanded to producing immersive theatrical experiences and have cemented itself as a theatrical entertainment company with a cutting-edge blend of gaming, theatre and technology.

Sight Lines has been featured prominently across all media channels including BBC, NBC News, South China Morning Post and Channel News Asia; to name a few.

I started Sight Lines in 2012 with the mission of building the Singapore Arts Culture of Tomorrow. Through it, we aim to develop the next generation of audiences and to cultivate in them an appreciation for culture and literature. To date, we have reached out to over 100,000 students across 100 schools nation-wide with our productions.

Through the years, we've researched, listened and understood the struggles of students studying the subject. That is why since 2023, our education division has experimented in crafting analytical meta-drama using Literature texts as a base. Through a performance-lecture and a play within a play format, students cement the learning of their text and deepen their understanding and appreciation of the characters and the story they are studying.

I am proud that their efforts have paid off from the rave reviews we've received from both teachers and students alike. I hope you will find our curated arts programmes education and engaging too.

I look forward to having your support, and through you, being able to achieve our mission of building our audiences of tomorrow.

A Meta-theatrical Approach to Literature Texts

The meta-theatrical approach of Sight Lines goes beyond mere performances. Through original interpretations that explain, analyze and make transparent the text, Sight Lines become partners in Literature education, providing discussion points and insights that can be used to deepen student engagement and understanding.

UNDERSTANDING SHAKESPEARE:

The Merchant of Venice

The experience was truly one of the best as I have never really thought that Shakespeare's text could be so interesting. I also learnt that everything that Shakespeare wrote has a meaning behind it and now I have a better appreciation for his work!

STUDENT AUDIENCE

A passionate and quirky Shakespeare scholar teams up with four actors. Together, they set out to understand and perform scenes from The Merchant of Venice.

As the actors learn the intricacies of the play's poetry, wordplay, and hidden meanings under the guidance of the scholar, the audience also gains a newfound understanding and appreciation for Shakespeare and his works. Blurring the boundaries between academia and entertainment, Understanding Shakespeare: The Merchant of Venice celebrates and unlocks the captivating power of Shakespeare's words.

Romeo & Juliet

Every student was engaged and many shared that this has been the most educational and fun learning journey they've been on. Kudos to the production team for coming up with such great ways of breaking down Shakespeare in the clearest and funniest manner possible!

Perfecting Pratas

The narrative preamble to the play was a great introduction to dramaturgy for students and we really enjoyed how the many seemingly abstract notions of theatre was practically manifested for students to experience and bring back to the classroom in their further reading of the play.

TEACHER AUDIENCE

When a director decides to stage Perfecting Pratas, he runs into a host of problems: the uncle he hired can't remember his lines, the other young actor can't get into character, and they're missing the whole point of his play!

As the actors talk it out and work on different exercises to perfect their performance, the audience will get to learn about the fundamentals of drama including characterisation, intention, motivation, obstacles which will give a deeper understanding to the reading of Perfecting Pratas.

The Boy in Striped Pajamas

The play was relatable to students using project group work as the premise to bring in notable moments from the text. Students were also challenged with questions and ideas raised during the performance which would allow them to have a more vibrant discussion in their classrooms.

TEACHER AUDIENCE

Four JC students are forced to work together on a project about The Boy on the Striped Pajamas. But when tempers flare and history start to repeat itself, the four students must learn to embody the message of the book, or risk failing the entire class.

Though the barbed-wire fence of the camp separates 9 year-old Bruno and his Jewish friend, Shmuel, the boys begin a forbidden friendship, oblivious to the real nature of their surroundings...

OFFICIAL SELECTION

Singapore International Film Festival 2022

From a directorial lens, Derrick gave wonderful insights into both the text and film. Students were encouraged to uncover the layers of subtexts and unpack the complexity of characters under Derrick's direction in the drama enactment activity. Even the teachers have been inspired by the activities which we will readily adopt in our class!

TEACHER AUDIENCE / WORKSHOP PARTICIPANT

The film follows the story of an elderly mother battling to preserve her home and community as residents are coerced into a collective housing block sale and the ensuing conflict with her son who desires a fresh start.

This updated adaptation of Singaporean playwright, Jean Tay's 2007 stage play is a poignant tribute to the disappearing heritage sites of Singapore, beautifully captured in the film's charming and bittersweet visuals.

WORKSHOP

Running Time

1 Hour

2 Sessions (2hrs each)

In this 2 day workshop, we unpack the underlying themes, characterisation, staging concepts and dramatic meanings in BOOM by helping students and teachers alike sensitize themselves to the play as a theatrical form/genre and the processes of theatre-making.

Through acting activities directed and facilitated by our director, we introduce a theatre practitioner's perspective and help students access the inner thoughts of the characters and their wants and how it contribute to the dramatic trajectory in terms of plot and action which will deepen their understanding of the play in the process.

Exclusive School Package

- 50% Tote Board Arts Subsidy

Reviews of Our Shows

Perfect entry play for students curious about drama! The staging elements were so well planned and are brilliant at helping students visualise what they cannot in a classroom - huge bonus for helping them break out of just reading.

SHOW: PERFECTING PRATAS

It was a wonderful opportunity to get the students excited about the text they are reading and going to a theatre to watch it come to life. From their positive reactions during the play, it is quite evident that it was an enjoyable experience. For some of them, it might be their first time watching a play at a theatre.

SHOW: THE BOY IN THE STRIPED PAJAMAS

Even though my students are not studying Shakespeare in school, it's crucial for them to be exposed to Shakespeare and this was the perfect opportunity. The introduction at the start to highlight the literary devices that are so beautifully weaved into the text was great!

SHOW: THE MERCHANT OF VENICE

The workshop helped students visualise and understand how to interpret the play from the perspective of a theatre practitioner. The highlight was when Derrick directed specific scenes with the students and taught them about character motivations and how to portray those on stage. This experience was not only engaging and unforgettable, but also beneficial to students as it deepened their understanding of the characters, beyond words on a printed page.
